An application for a new Church of England Secondary School in Southwark, an 11-19 5FE boys' school, will be submitted to the Department for Education in March 2017.

The new school will be highly inclusive, have a distinctive Christian character and will offer its students the opportunity to grow and develop within a broad and balanced curriculum framework underpinned by Christian values.

This state-funded school will cater for the growing demand for boys' secondary places, and will be operated by the Southwark Diocesan Board of Education (SDBE) multi-academy trust, alongside its existing family of schools.

Subject to approval by the Secretary of State, Southwark CofE Boys' Secondary School will open with 150 Year 7 students, growing each year to a full capacity of 950 boys including a sixth form.
